

CALL FOR SHORT PAPERS

FoBJBS Higher Degree by Research
Conference 2022

The FOBJBS HDR Conference provides HDR students with an opportunity to network with other students and academics in the Faculty, present their research, and seek broader feedback on their progress. This year we have the symposium on 16-17 November 2022. The Conference will be held in the RSL Club, Wagga Wagga.

All HDR students in the School of Computing, Mathematics and Engineering are encouraged to submit a short paper of no more than four pages, which will be reviewed by two academics. The feedback will be provided to students, and the final short papers will be published online. Students will be invited to present their short articles at the Conference. As usual, the Conference will include keynote speeches by distinguished guest speakers and presentations by senior academics.

Submission Guidelines

Closely adhere to the prescribed template and submit your short paper as a word document via EasyChair (<https://easychair.org/my/conference?conf=hdrconf22>). Submissions that do not comply with the required formatting criteria will be returned and at risk of rejection. The prescribed format can be found attached to the invitation. Work submitted in short papers should be original. Do not recycle previously published or currently submitted work.

Short papers will be expected to be converted to full conference or journal papers in the near future in consultation with your supervisors.

Important Dates

Submission Date	16 October 2022
Academic Review and Feedback Due	30 October 2022
Final Submission	06 November 2022

Awards

There will be one award presented at the Conference:

- Best short paper award
- Best presentation award
- All HDR students will receive a certificate of participation