Spiritual reminiscence for older people

Finding meaning in later life, especially for those experiencing dementia

Professional Development Workshop
Aged Care Quality Standards
Standard 1 – dignity and choice

Highly recommended for nurses, chaplains, pastoral carers, leisure activity officers, and professionals who work with older adults

“Spiritual reminiscence is a special way of communication that acknowledges the person as a spiritual being and seeks to engage the person in a more meaningful and personal way. It focuses on the person with dementia and their emotional and spiritual being rather than on cognitive losses.” (MacKinlay & Trevitt 2015)

This is a FACE-TO-FACE interactive workshop. New training videos show actual sessions with people who have dementia and the interactions between them and the facilitator.
