How do Hosts give participants the right to talk?

From the Audio menu, choose Microphone Rights for Participants. This option enables audio conferencing using VoIP.

A tick will show that attendees can now click on the microphone image that will turn green when they can talk.

The host can select the bottom option as well to avoid overlapping conversations.

An asterisk will appear next to the microphone button when one speaker clicks the button, it’s disabled for other users until the current speaker clicks the button again.
