

MASTER OF BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION (LAW ENFORCEMENT AND SECURITY)

> What is CSU's
Master of Business Administration (Law Enforcement and Security)?

Law enforcement and security professionals worldwide occupy a continuously and rapidly changing environment. To be successful in these fields, you need unique perspectives and the ability to adapt proactively to emerging trends, threats and vulnerabilities.

Charles Sturt University's (CSU's) Master of Business Administration (Law Enforcement and Security) has been designed in close collaboration with senior policing and academic representatives. This course meets the contemporary demands you face as a law enforcement and security executive, and gives you the opportunity to engage with the latest management theories and leading business practices.

You will study a blend of core, elective and specialist subjects that allow you to graduate with a qualification unique to your profession, and which meets your own personal interests and career aspirations.

> Why study CSU's
Master of Business
Administration (Law Enforcement and Security)?

This course will enhance your knowledge of the fundamental disciplines of business. You will gain the theoretical frameworks and analytical tools you need to effectively lead and manage in the law enforcement and security sector.

With a focus on the fundamentals of key business areas such as service delivery and performance, financial management and economics, marketing and sustainability, and ethics and accountability, this degree gives you the ability to set and attain strategic goals through sound, ethical practice and innovation.

This specialised degree is offered through a collaborative cross-faculty teaching arrangement, involving the School of Management and Marketing and the Australian Graduate School of Policing and Security (AGSPS). It has been designed to fill the gap between technically focused educational offerings and the more generalist business degrees that are currently available.

> Credit

You will be able to apply for credit if you have undertaken relevant postgraduate study.

Reasons for studying the Master of Business Administration (Law Enforcement and Security) at CSU

Gain a competitive advantage in your pursuit of middle and senior management roles around the globe.

Enjoy the freedom and flexibility of studying when and where it suits you.

Boost your credentials in the domestic or international law enforcement and security sectors.

In the world of law enforcement and security, heads of agencies and departments leading complex strategic and operational dynamics require intellectual leadership, business acumen and literacy. A high-level understanding of business fundamentals is imperative.”

Mick Keelty

Former Commissioner
Australian Federal Police

“Corporate leaders need to be much more than technically savvy. They need to have modern management expertise, and demonstrate intellectual and organisational leadership in delivering critical services to the community. This MBA is designed to deliver key leadership competencies for aspirational professionals.
